DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Looking to the future, it is clear that online and blended learning models will continue to play a significant role in education. These models offer a number of benefits, including increased access to education, flexible scheduling, personalized learning, and cost savings.

One of the major advantages of online learning witnessed with Snehagram students, is its ability to reach a wider audience. With online courses, students can participate from anywhere in the world, as long as they have an internet connection. Students can access course materials and complete assignments on their own schedule. Online courses are typically less expensive than traditional courses, as there are no costs associated with physical classroom space and materials.

Challenge is ensuring that students stay engaged and motivated in an online or blended learning environment. Without the structure and social interaction of a traditional classroom, some students may struggle to stay focused and motivated. Despite these challenges, the future of education is likely to involve more online and blended learning models. Educators and policymakers must work to address the challenges associated with these models, while also embracing their potential to increase access to education, personalize learning, and reduce costs. With the right strategies and support, online and blended learning can help to create a more flexible, accessible, and effective education system for students of all ages and backgrounds.

➤➤➤ GREAT BANGALORE 10K

On January 10th, 2023, the excitement was palpable as we geared up to participate in the Great Bangalore 10k Run held at Sri Kanteerava Stadium. In preparation for the event, we had been practicing seriously since the Ranipet Marathon on December 18th. Under the guidance of our coach, we followed a strict training schedule and performed strength-building workouts to give our best at the event.

Early morning training sessions were challenging, especially in the cold weather, but we pushed ourselves to overcome the discomfort and achieve our goals. Our coach emphasized the importance of discipline and reminded us that with practice, anything is possible. We also took sufficient rest to ensure proper recovery and improve our overall performance. In addition to our training sessions, we also participated in fun games and sports to improve our team spirit and strengthen our bond. All of us were determined to break our personal best times, but due to COVID-19, only students above 18 years of age were allowed to participate, with permission from the Child Welfare Committee. Although this was disappointing for many, the children took it positively and focused on making the most of the opportunity. Twenty students participated in the event and all of them performed exceptionally well. We captured memories by taking photos and interacting with other running groups and runners, which helped to improve our relationships and feel more accepted in the community. Participating in events like this motivates us to maintain a healthy and fit lifestyle. ➤➤➤ Amar

➤➤➤ PONGAL CELEBRATION

Pongal is a festival of peace, prosperity and joy. It is a harvest festival, also known as the festival of farmers, as it emphasises the importance of a good harvest season and natural resources. We have started cleaning and decorating our house. It is a festival that people enjoy to the fullest. Pongal is celebrated in southern India, mainly in Tamil Nadu. The Snehagram family was so excited about the festival that we prepared all the ingredients to cook Pongal (sweet rice). The students decorated the pot and prepared a stove by putting down 3 stones and decorating it with candy canes. After the blessing, we lit the fire and started to boil the water with the rice and when it bubbled over, we all shouted Pongaloo...Pongaloo... All the students began to jump and dance. When the rice was ready, we shared the cut sugar cane and enjoyed chewing the juice from it. Later we shared the sweet pongal, it was so delicious with so many crunchy nuts and grapes. As a family we enjoyed the small celebration and made the most of the day.

➤➤➤ MATTU PONGAL

The third day of Pongal is dedicated to cattle and is called Mattu Pongal. People offer prayers to the bulls, cows and other farm animals. Cows and bulls have always held a special place in India. Cows give nourishing milk while bulls and oxen help plough the fields. Thus, Maatu Pongal is a day when cattle are given a well-deserved day of rest and are given pride of place. As we have cattle at Snehagram we dedicated this day for them, students loved the celebration, specially bathing the cows, colouring them and decorating with flowers. The priest blessed the animals and all cows were given special food and tasty green grass. It surely made their day. This celebration increases our love for the animals and give equal respect.

➤➤➤ MAKE YOUR GARDEN

Gardening is a relaxing and rewarding hobby that allows you to connect with nature and create something beautiful. My experience with gardening has been a delightful one, and I have thoroughly enjoyed every moment spent tending to my plants.

As I continued to tend to my garden, I began to feel a sense of peace and tranquility wash over me. The act of gardening allowed me to slow down, disconnect from the chaos of daily life, and immerse myself in the beauty of nature. Moreover, gardening has also taught me valuable life lessons. I learned about the importance of patience, persistence, and resilience. I had to be patient with my plants and provide them with the care and attention they needed to grow.

The joy of harvesting our own vegetables and cooking with them was indescribable. The freshness and flavour of homegrown produce are unmatched, and the feeling of satisfaction that comes with eating something you grew yourself is simply amazing. I would highly recommend gardening to anyone looking for a relaxing and rewarding hobby that will bring them closer to the beauty and wonder of the natural world.

➤➤➤ SUPPORT OTHERS

Donating to those in need can bring immense joy to both the giver and the receiver. It is a selfless act that not only helps the less fortunate, but also promotes a sense of community and compassion. Snehagram was proud to have TISB students initiate a running event to raise fund to donate shoes and Tshirts for the children at Snehagram. Whether it is a small contribution or a large sum of money, the knowledge they have helped and this brings a sense of purpose and happiness to these children's life.
